

Chapter 227

Janet's face fell when she heard the proposal!

These people actually wanted to cut off their ties with the company in order to survive!

Lunanica Media was at risk. Shouldn't all of them stay together and go through this difficult time?

However, these people actually wanted to run away!

Having the company to buy back their shares was certainly a wise move to protect themselves.

However, to the company...

Needless to say, it would only add more pressure!

The company didn't have many funds available now. If the company bought back the shares, it would be completely doomed!

"What's wrong with you all? You guys have been serving in this company for so long. How could you abandon the company during this time? Don't you know that once we buy back your shares, it will be even more difficult for us to overcome this?" Janet couldn't help but be very direct about it.

The shareholders put on a long face. It was obvious that they had reached an agreement even before this meeting.

Janet went pale with anger.

When the company paid the dividends every year, they would always request to purchase more of the company shares.

They were afraid of losing out to others.

Now that the company was in trouble, they were eager to escape!

Martin stood up and replied sarcastically, "Miss Ching, you can't blame us. The company has fallen into such a miserable situation. It is definitely not what we want to see either."

Martin paused for a while and added, "The culprit is William and we are all victims! You can otherwise look for that person and ask him to pay his debt."

Janet's face trembled with anger.

D*mn it!

Martin had planned this all along!

How dared he say such such a shameless statement so brazenly!

Wouldn't he and the other shareholders feel guilty about it?!

How could they team up to drive the company into an even more difficult situation?!

"Let me check the company's financial status first," said Janet while gnashing her teeth.

Martin showed a mocking smirk at that moment. The company's financial status? He knew exactly how much money that was left in the company.

A staff member came over and reported, "Miss Ching, the company has ten million in cash."

"What?" Janet shouted. Her expression changed drastically!

"How can it be only ten million yuan? There was at least a few hundred million just few days ago! Are you sure?" Janet asked furiously.

The staff member handed Janet the report in fear.

When Janet saw the numbers, she was dumbfounded.

She noticed a large sum of money was being invested in a project the previous day that she had never heard of.

Why would this random investment be carried out at this moment in time?

It seemed there was someone behind the scene driving Lunanica Media into destruction!

Who did all of these?

Who was so eager to drive Lunanica Media to a dead end?

There was an indescribable sorrow and grief in Janet's heart.

She didn't have time to pursue this matter at that moment.

She needed to face the pack of wolves in front of her!

"Well, the company doesn't have funds for the time being. We need at least five hundred million since all of you demand us to buy back all your shares. Now the company..." Janet suppressed her anger and stated coldly.

Martin interjected, "Since the company has no funds, as the director, you'll have to find a solution to address our urgent needs. Otherwise, why should you be the director?"

Janet felt a flash of irritation in that instant! He was going to make Janet take all the responsibility!

She stared at Martin with rage in her eyes!

D*mn it, Martin!

It seemed like he was the one who set it all up!

No wonder he proposed earlier to appoint her as the director!

It was not for her to clean up the mess!

But to take the blame!

D*mn it! She had fallen into his trap!

Those shareholders continued to cause a commotion.

They criticized, "Mr. Zhang is right! I don't care.

You have to buy back our shares anyway! Otherwise, I won't leave today."

Another lady bellowed, "We have worked diligently for the company for more than ten years. Do you want to bring us down together although we have contributed to the company so much? Don't you feel guilty?"

"We are willing to let go of our shares at the market price and that's our baseline. Else, you should resign from the position of the director!"

Their criticisms were endless.

Janet's head buzzed. She felt that there was no further turning point.

A shareholder stood up abruptly and roared, "You are not competent at all. You are not as courageous as Mr. Zhang. Why don't we come to a middle ground?"

He clicked his tongue and added, "We'll give you and Mr. Zhang two days. The one who can raise funds to solve the problem will be appointed as the director. Is this a good idea?"

When it was proposed, everyone supported the proposition instantly.

Even those who were not supportive of Martin agreed to it.

Anything could happen in two days.

What if the shares became worthless?

It was going to be a huge loss.

All shareholders were united after having a mutual agreement.

Janet couldn't help but look at Martin.

Martin was at ease, his face pained with arrogance as if he was determined to win.

Janet came to her senses very quickly!

She thought, "To buy back their shares? Nonsense!"

Why did they force her to resign?

Everything was a setup!

It was all planned by Martin!

"Martin must have used some means to transfer the company funds out temporarily!

He then instigated the shareholders to rebel against her, resulting in a situation where she was now in!

Where would she get hundreds of millions in two days?!

As for Martin...

As long as those unaccounted funds were transferred back, the position of the director would certainly belong to him in no time!

D*mn!

Everything worked out as he had expected!

She could not believe that he would craft up such a devious scheme at this very critical moment!

What a cunning wolf!

Martin was on the other hand was over cloud nine.

He must be smartest person in the world. Who would have thought of transferring the available funds in the company elsewhere?

The best was of course when he was appointed as the director.

If the company went bankrupt because of this, he could also make a fortune by selling off his shares.

However, there was a slight possibility that he might not be able to prevent.

If Janet managed to raise enough funds, she would secure her position as director.

Everyone would then sell off their shares to her.

Well, it would not cause Martin any losses anyway.

What would happen after his shares were all sold off?

He would return to his original position and continued to manage the company.

He would still get his pay as usual.

No matter what happened, he would win.

Janet and Martin looked at each other. His eyes were full of arrogance.

People were making a fuss about forcing Janet to resign.

Janet was about to explode in exasperation.

William, oh William!

How could he just leave her with all this mess?

Did he know that what he had left behind was but a living hell?

Along with a bunch of demons!

Janet couldn't help but blame it on William.

When she thought of William, it reminded her of the four pouches which he gave her.

She recalled what William had told her, "Look for the tips in the pouches if you have problems."

She thought, "I seem to have reached a cross road."

Should she look for the tips?

Although ridiculous, Janet was genuinely curious. She put her hand into her pocket, reached out for the pouch marked with number one, and opened it quietly.

There was a note inside the pouch.

When she saw the words, Janet shuddered involuntarily as if she had been electrocuted.

22:03

She was extremely shocked!

"Buy everything that you can possibly buy!"

@vamp20works

Chapter 228

Reading those words, Janet actually stood up from her seat in front of everyone!

She couldn't believe it!

It was so unbelievable!

"Buy everything that you can possibly buy!"

These words were so relevant to the current situation!

William had actually predicted this to happen. His tips came just in time!

If this was referring to the ongoing situation Janet was in, then William was just amazing!

Did he anticipate that the shareholders would rebel and force the company to buy back their shares?

This was simply terrifying!

"Buy everything that I can possibly buy."

But what should she use to buy?

As Janet was about to lament, she stared at the note and found there was fine print in the note.

"Buy it for me, Melissa will pay for it."

Janet's head buzzed again!

D*mn!

It really was!

This brat really predicted it!

Did he really want to buy shares from these shareholders?

But, wasn't he killing himself in this way?

Everyone knew that the company was in a tottering state. What would happen next was uncertain.

The company shares were likely to become worthless in no time.

Yet, he still wanted to buy these shares!

He was simply fearless!

Was he trying to atone for the sins he committed?

It was the only reasonable explanation.

He still had his conscience.

She was really in a dilemma with the criticisms around her.

This would help her indirectly during this critical time.

Without further hesitation, Janet banged the table and roared, "Okay! I promise that I will buy back all of your shares. The funds will be credited into your accounts in three days."

Janet did not agree to the bet against Martin.

This was because she didn't want to follow exactly what Martin had planned!

If she agreed to the bet, she would have fallen into his trap.

She chose to follow William's advice out of desperation.

Although William was a cowardly idiot, he was not bad compared to Martin who was despicable and unscrupulous.

Martin was obviously taken aback when he heard what Janet said.

It was beyond his expectation.

He thought to himself, "This lady actually thinks she can solve the money problem by herself?"

Ridiculous!

Did she want to pay for it using her own money?

What a joke!

He initially thought of giving Janet a way to survive and force her to retreat from this battle that she was bound to lose.

It seemed like he was too kind.

In that case, he would not go easy on her.

Martin came up with another plan. "This is what you promise, Miss Ching. It's not that we don't trust you but we should sign an agreement formally."

Janet braced herself and agreed, "Not a problem."

Martin could see that she was not confident; he became more arrogant that instant.

Soon, Janet was presented with a pile of documents for her to sign on.

Everyone lined up and waited for Janet to sign on the documents.

Martin was the first one. He held 5% of the company shares, which was worth at least ten million.

Martin couldn't help but laugh.

Regardless, he would eventually be the biggest winner in this game.

He knew very well that he would not get harmed in this thunderstorm.

He only had to wait for an opportunity to make a comeback and become the person who held the most power in Lunanica Media.

It would be a shame to lose Janet though.

She was beautiful and voluptuous, but unfortunately, she had no sense of appreciation and chose to follow in William's footsteps.

Even if she could raise the funds, what would be next?

She might possibly cover the funds with some of her sources but eventually, the funds would be all locked up.

Lunanica Media that did not have any funds at all would be doomed sooner or later.

It was but a dead end!

It took her more than half an hour to sign the documents.

The shareholders in presence sold 90% of their shares in hand.

There were a few Harper's men among them. They couldn't bear to see Janet suffer, hence they only sold off a fraction of their shares as a way to help Janet.

Even then, Janet had bought back nearly 500-million worth of shares.

Five hundred million!

Her head hurt when she thought about the amount.

She didn't know if William was out of his mind!

People looked at Janet with strange gaze. As they did not know this was William's plan, Janet looked like a complete fool to them.

Janet quickly called Melissa when she went to the bathroom.

Melissa was still cheering with joy in her group chat. When she heard what Janet told her, she fell off her chair along with her phone.

She looked at Lydia mutely, obviously exasperated and enraged.

William actually asked Janet to get money from her!

And this instruction was given through the tips which she found in the pouch!

Melissa shivered at the thought of it.

That was it!

That was going to be the end of it!

This little b*stard did not give up yet; he was going to make a comeback!

He actually wanted to use the money from the Genuine Care Medical Center to help Lunanica Media!

D*mn!

She must have been too happy the previous day to witness his dismay that he wanted to take his revenge on her!

Melissa couldn't help but rebuke William over the call.

Janet on the other hand was even more confused when she heard Melissa's roar. She wondered, "Why does everyone hate that b*stard?"

Why did he get scolded wherever he went?

When Janet said that the pouches were given to her the previous day, Melissa felt goosebumps all over her body.

Melissa thought, "Yesterday? But I didn't get to meet him yesterday though."

No wonder he looked so strange when he glimpsed at her the previous day.

It turned out he had planned for it long ago.

Sh*t! Then what was the point of her gloating at him the previous day?

Melissa was not satisfied and asked more about the pouches.

When Melissa found out that Janet only opened one of the four pouches, Melissa was completely dumbfounded.

She swore to herself, "D*mn it, that's how it is!"

Janet quickly asked what was going on.

Why would Melissa tell her? All she replied was, "Just do as William told you. He is so f*cking sneaky! Now that he has planned everything well, he will just be chill and let things flow."

"What do you mean by that? Make it clear!" Janet asked, still confused.

Melissa squealed, "Don't ask. You just need to remember one thing. Now, it's the harvest time for this little b*stard. He is waiting for a big harvest!"

Melissa hung up and went to raise the funds, feeling depressed.

After Janet made the call, she felt terrible.

She wondered, "Are all of his schemes contained in these four pouches?"

Wasn't he an idiot?

Wasn't he a coward?

Why did he have such a terrifying tactic?

It looked that Melissa had fallen into his traps several times!

Yet, she was the Melissa who was known for her wits in Qena City!

Janet was full of doubts and quickly headed toward the meeting room.

The final handover was complete. The shareholders were contented and applauded with much glee.

It seemed like they were relieved that they could escape from the disaster.

Seeing Janet's indifferent expression, everyone went to her and comforted, "Miss Ching, you can't blame us! The company will have to count on you. We will support you!"

Martin was even more straightforward. "Miss Ching, don't worry. Although I sold off my shares, I am still the company's most loyal deputy general manager. Unfortunately, I don't know how long I will last as one."

He was implying that the company was about to collapse.

The others laughed loudly hearing what Martin said as though this disaster had nothing to do with them.

22:04

Just as they were laughing happily, a staff member came into the room hastily and shouted to Janet, "Miss Ching, please come out quickly! There are several people who are here to see you!"

@vamp20works

Chapter 229

Janet was taken aback for a moment. "Several people? Who're they?"

The person who was laughing at Janet stopped abruptly and looked at the staff member.

The staff member spoke with excitement, "It looks like a member of the Medical Association. I know the middle-aged man leading the team is Yohan Chung, who is also the expert spokesperson in the Pharmaceutical Association."

Everyone was astonished.

Yohan was very well known everywhere let alone Qena City.

Yohan was a businessman.

He had been an expert spokesperson over many years, specialized in helping people with commercial matters.

He had a nickname called Foxy.

It described him as a very cunning man who would use all means in business negotiations.

Even Janet burnt her fingers dealing with Yohan in her early years.

One could really imagine the power of this man.

Yohan made an appearance that day.

He brought along a team with him .

What could be his intention?

As she was figuring out the reason for Yohan's appearance, Martin laughed loudly. "Haha! It's true that the Medical Association has taken action. They must be here at Lunanica Media to question the film."

The crowd suddenly realized it and looked at Janet sympathetically.

At the same time, there was a lingering sense of fear among them.

Luckily, they sold off all of their shares.

With the Medical Association's involvement, if they decided to take further action, it was possible that all of their shareholdings might become void.

It was truly fortunate as they sold off their shares.

Janet was disturbed by the remarks of the surrounding people.

She decided to brace herself and spoke to the staff member, "Hurry, please invite them in."

The staff member understood the message and quickly proceeded.

Janet would usually meet the big shots or senior leaders all by herself.

However, the shareholders refused to leave.

In fact, few wanted to stay and watched how it would play out.

Some were worried that Janet would not be able to handle the situation.

But the majority was curious. Although they had sold off their shares but the money had not been in their hands yet.

Everyone was eager to wait for the representative from the Medical Association to show up.

In less than a minute, it could be heard footsteps pounding toward the meeting room.

The door was pushed open and a bunch of people walked right in.

Everyone looked toward the door; there were nine men in their suits and leather shoes in front of them.

There was one at the lead, a middle-aged man with well combed hair and a delicate beard.

It was Yohan!

Seeing this man, Janet's heart began to drum fiercely.

Memories of the fear of being dominated by Yohan's scheme resurfaced.

She faltered even before the negotiation started.

Janet honestly didn't want to negotiate with such an unscrupulous man.

The others were not only surprised with Yohan's arrival.

In fact, the men in the group right behind Yohan were all well-known figures.

They were expert spokespersons and private consultants.

These are the experts of the Medical Association.

That being said that Yohan was leading the group and representing the Medical Association.

"Hi, Janet. We meet again." Yohan gently touched his beard, stepped forward and stretched out his hand gracefully.

Janet reluctantly reached out her hand and shook his.

Just as she was about to pull back, she felt Yohan's deliberate scratch on her palm.

She blushed and stared at Yohan angrily!

Yohan laughed aloud. "Sorry, it's just a little joke. You still get angry so easily."

The surrounding people including Martin chuckled at once.

Janet's face blushed with embarrassment amidst the laughter.

How shameless!

Yohan had never changed the slightest!

She knew clearly that this was Yohan's usual trick!

The first step was to irritate the opponent, making them lose their manners and even sanity.

In the subsequent negotiation, the opponent would start off on the wrong footing and ended up in his trap right in front of him.

Knowing that it was his tactic, Janet was furious.

"To what do I owe your pleasure, Mr. Chung?" Janet asked coldly.

Martin murmured silently, "What else could it be? He must have come to inquire about the film!"

Good luck, Janet!

Yohan and the others sat down, and immediately the room went into silence.

Yohan cleared his throat and spoke, "Your movie is the hot topic in the city these days. I'm just here to show my concern."

Janet was startled.

He did not even make any accusation against Lunanica Media in his statement!

He was planning to take it slowly before he vanquished them, wasn't he?

"Get straight to the point." Janet didn't want to deal with such people, not even for a minute.

"You're still so bad-tempered. Alright, let's not beat around the bush then. I'm representing all of these people with me as well as their bosses to negotiate a deal with Lunanica Media," Yohan said.

"What deal?" Martin couldn't help but butt in. Martin felt something was wrong.

He thought that these people from the Medical Association were here to question Janet and the film.

But looking at the situation, it didn't seem to be the case.

These people did not appear to make any interrogations at all.

Instead, scheming and plotting were written all over their expressions.

It meant that Lunanica Media had something to rely on.

Something that they feared for!

Everyone in Lunanica Media was panicking. What else was worthy for Yohan to make an appearance?

It was not only Yohan but many others who turned up as well!

Something fishy and sinister must be going on here!

Yohan glanced at Martin disapprovingly and uttered to Janet, "We are here to talk about an acquisition."

"You want to buy our company? There's no further need for discussion," Janet said directly.

But Yohan looked at Janet contemptuously. "You don't look like a professional manager if you act this way. Hear me out first. We are here to buy over the actors from your company."

Everyone frowned hearing what Yohan said.

D*mn!

It turned out that they were trying to poach their talents!

Indeed, there was no better time than that moment.

As Lunanica Media was falling apart, they would have nothing else to be sold.

Even if they sold Laura, they would surely make a bargain.

"You are here for Laura!" Janet said bitterly.

Laura was the only one that could be offered by Lunanica Media.

What Janet didn't understand was that they were representatives of the Medical Association.

Their business was about medicines. Why would they intervene in the entertainment industry?

Something tricky was going on!

Yohan shook his head slightly. "Laura? Not really."

"Then who do you want to buy over?" Janet couldn't resist asking.

Everyone was dumbfounded.

Yohan put on an enigmatic smile and said, "We are buying over ten people. And, at a high price!"

He deliberately paused for a while before he drawled, "The ten supporting actors who played the characters of freaks in your recent movie!"

@vamp20works

Chapter 230

Yohan's words caused an uproar in an instant!

Ten supporting actors!

Not Laura!

But only the ten supporting actors!

The ten supporting actors were under Lunanica Media.

But they were terribly awful, be it their characters or their acting skills.

It was clearly shown in the movie that their acting was too often exaggerated.

They were pompous and their bad reputation preceded them.

Any person or company would detest them.

It was really unexpected that Yohan and his team would want to buy them over!

And all ten of them would be bought over at the same time!

It was simply unbelievable!

Were Yohan and his team crazy?

Everyone looked at Yohan strangely.

Yohan in turn looked around and glimpsed at everyone of them present.

Looking at the confusion and bewilderment in their eyes, Yohan heaved a sigh of relief.

It was exactly what he had expected!

Everything was under his control!

To understand the reason for Yohan's team making an appearance here this day, the story dated back to two days ago.

It started from the night before the movie was released.

Both the experts from the Pharmaceutical Association and the Medical Association received an invitation from Lunanica Media for the movie premiere.

The experts from the Medical Association had the same reaction as Frandick, the chairman of the Pharmaceutical Association.

In the initial part of the movie, everyone was criticizing and mocking the terrible acting and editing of the movie

However, toward the end of the movie, several experts were astonished.

They repeated watching the few scenes for further scrutiny.

Their eyes widened in stupefaction as they watched for another few more times.

In the end, the eeriness gradually turned into shock and horror!

They noticed an incredible detail!

In fact, there were ten of them!

It was as though they had discovered dragons or apparitions in the real world.

It was simply impossible!

Unfortunately, as if the editing was intentionally done in such a way, whenever the truth was about to be revealed, the movie would skip to the next scene.

It made the experts fume with rage.

They were obviously intrigued yet they could not find the answer in the movie.

Everyone was left hanging!

The elders of the Medical Association called each other for clarification.

They gathered in the office in the middle of the night.

They were all in shock.

They asked one another, "Are you sure that those things are true? Or is Lunanica Media trying to pull some tricks?"

It was a question everyone had in mind.

The leader among the experts, Maxwell Song pondered for a long time and spoke, "I believe that they are true. It is impossible for all these ten places to appear as a coincidence. Moreover, these things have been long lost without a trace in this world."

He paused for a while and added, "Think about it. People in Lunanica Media don't know anything about medicine. How could they fabricate those things out of thin air? We'll give them the benefit of the doubt if it is only one but there are ten of them! Do you still think it is a coincidence?"

Another expert voiced, "Honestly, although these ten items have been long lost, some of them have appeared a few times in ancient records. Well, each is incomplete."

"I compared the records overnight with the ones in the movie, they were exactly the same! The ones in the movie are more detailed than those being documented!" a man in his sixties chimed in.

"This is beyond comprehension! I believe none of us will be able to collect those ancient records, let alone laymen like the staff members in Lunanica Media."

Maxwell nodded. "A bold guess from me: Lunanica Media actually holds treasures we don't know yet! That's why they invited us to the movie premiere! Only we, the old freaks could possibly recognize them!"

Everyone was excited.

What a miracle!

Their blood was boiling with jubilation for they had witnessed ten miracles occurring at the same time!

If they obtained these ten miracles, it would definitely be a breakthrough discovery in the entire medical world.

They would garner wealth that would sustain them for generations!

It would also bring them fame and fortune to their fingertips!

Even though these experts no longer cared about fame and wealth, they could not help feeling passionate and excited about this miraculous discovery.

This was like a godsend opportunity for everyone!

"So what do you think we should do?" someone asked Maxwell.

Maxwell pondered for a moment and replied, his eyes sparkling, "We'll get them at all cost! I am going to bring Yohan in for the next step. Are you guys in?"

Everyone hesitated.

At all cost?

The price would be huge!

Although Maxwell sounded convincing, it was just his hypothesis; no one had seen the real evidence.

It was a huge bet!

Seeing the hesitance in their faces, a glint of malice flashed across Maxwell's eyes and he continued, "Gentlemen, if you've forgotten, let me remind you about that old man, Frandick Hoo from the Pharmaceutical Association. He is terminally ill and there will be only one thing which can save his life."

"We do not know if it's a coincidence that such items actually appeared in the movie. I believe Frandick would have also watched the movie, too. If he were to obtain these items before us, we will suffer under his brutal suppression in many more years."

Maxwell's words were like a bomb, exploded in everyone's heart.

Displeasure began to cloud everyone's expression.

They were unwilling to succumb to Frandick!

They were unwilling to give up their honor and dignity too!

D*mn!

F*ck!

They were going to give it a try, though the price was huge!

If they lost this bet, then all fame and fortune would be lost!

If they won, they would become legends and their names would be remembered for centuries!

Everyone nodded in agreement and was willing to send their respective spokesperson to Lunanica Media to get those items in hand as soon as possible.

The team of spokespersons headed by Yohan gathered again for a meeting the next morning.

Although they were called the spokespersons, in fact, they were from various finance consortium supporting the experts who appointed them.

Each expert had a finance consortium to fund each of their scientific researches.

Every piece of their research could yield huge returns to these consortia.

It was a win-win cooperation. Each of them benefited from each other.

Yohan and the team were naturally not going to take those items at all costs, as expected by the experts.

They were businessmen and had their own ways.

They would leverage all resources; they would only go the extra mile to get what they wanted.

They had many means and tactics up their sleeves.

Their first consideration was always to maximize profits for the consortium.

Therefore, Yohan and the team decided to collect some intelligence first.

Yohan immediately laughed eerily when he was given a pile of documents.

"It seems like Lunanica isn't aware that they are holding such precious items. If that's the case, they shouldn't blame me for taking these items away!"

Yohan's eerie guffaws echoed off the wall. "How ignorant! These treasures should be ours then!"

@vamp20works

Chapter 231

The documents on the desk described the situation of Lunanica Media in the previous two days.

It involved the dismissal of the new director, William, and also a huge compensation paid off by the company.

Some shareholders even clamored to sell off all of their shares.

All signs showed that even Lunanica Media's very own employees did not know its worth.

Apparently no one in Lunanica Media knew about the treasures they were selling off.

Yohan discussed with everyone and planned to get these treasures at the lowest cost.

After further discussion, they finally agreed with Yohan's idea.

Speaking of which, Yohan was still pretty upset.

This was because before they saw eye to eye with this strategy, Yohan had already thought of a more insidious trick.

From the movie, they knew that these treasures were all in the hands of the ten supporting actors.

This point could be proven from the lines in the movies and also the treasures in their hands.

As long as they could buy over these ten actors, they'd be able to get these treasures.

As for the actors' acting skills and their unreliable character, they didn't matter to Yohan and the team.

Yohan and the team had used various ways to get hold of those actors' contact numbers.

They wanted to buy them over privately.

However, to Yohan's frustration, their phones were all turned off!

It triggered an alert in him!

Could it be that Lunanica Media was actually pretending this from happening after all?

Had Lunanica Media actually saw the worth in these ten actors?

Hence they hid them in advance.

Later, Yohan managed to find out from his connection that these actors had traveled abroad after the shooting was over and all its cost was going to be borne by Lunanica Media.

It was a relief to Yohan!

In the end, he decided to go to Lunanica Media with the team to buy over the actors.

Why would they buy over all ten actors at the same time?

There was only one reason!

They wanted to leave no one for the people from the Medical Association!

They were going to cut off Frandick's only ways to survive with their own hands!

They were all there that day.

To buy over the ten actors.

After hearing what Yohan mentioned, everyone was confused.

What use did these ten actors serve?

How could they actually attract an old fox like Yohan to come in person to buy them over?

Looking at their expressions, Yohan was confident that the people of Lunanica Media were not aware of anything.

It was a pity that he was going to snatch all their wealth into his pocket.

Yohan cleared his throat again. Now that they were in chaos, it was the best time to make a strike. "We believe that the ten actors possess value and potential, so we would like to buy them at ten million yuan each. How does that sound to you?"

That caused an uproar again!

Lunanica Media would have given away these actors for free.

It was really unbelievable that someone would actually offer ten million to buy over each of them!

This was pure madness!

While everyone was shocked, Martin's face suddenly fell.

Well, Yohan and the team didn't come to inquire about the movie.

But, they were here to buy over the actors!

All ten of them at once!

And these ten actors happened to be the supporting actors in the movie.

However, what made Martin even more uneasy was another weird coincidence!

These ten actors had just renewed their contracts with Lunanica Media!

And each of them were obligated with 50 million premature contract termination!

If it happened in the past, Martin would definitely find it amusing!

But at this moment, his entire being was enshrouded by a bad hunch as though a thunderstorm was about to come.

Coincidence!

There were just too many coincidences!

The contract of these actors had just been renewed with a high penalty.

And almost immediately, someone came to buy them over!

With no one left behind!

And all of this was orchestrated by that director, William!

His seeming ludicrous move was actually an intentional one, wasn't it?

Martin suddenly felt a chill running down his spine.

Things seemed to have gone beyond his control!

This helplessness made Martin speechless.

It was as if he was back in the hands of that idiotic director who had been dismissed!

This was absolutely...

Implausible!

Well, of course, Janet had also realized the same thing.

She could not help feeling more astonished at William's wisdom!

Previously, everyone saw William as a halfwit when he forcibly renewed the actors' contracts with such a high penalty!

Now that the table had been turned, it seemed so magical. It was as though everything was unfolding itself as per William's unknown plan!

What a spooky guy!

Although he had left Lunanica Media a long time ago...

In that instance, every place and every moment of Lunanica Media was still under his superintendence.

His presence remained in this company!

It looked like he had played his cards well. He was awaiting his harvest.

Judging on the current situation, this must be his plan!

Frowning, Janet remained mute. Afraid of potential complications, Yohan immediately asked, "Janet, how is it? We've made an incredibly generous offer."

Janet finally came to her senses. She looked at Yohan, amused, and replied, "We have to have an internal discussion first."

An internal discussion?

Those words were like a knife piercing through Yohan's heart.

He suppressed his anger, pretended to be calm, and said, "Okay, then you take your time to think about it. We'll leave first."

As he rose from his seat, the shareholders began to persuade him to stay.

Even a fool could see that it was a golden opportunity for Lunanica Media!

As long as these actors were sold off, they would have a share of the profit.

How could they let such a great piece of gold to leave?

Yohan came back and sat down again with the pleas of the shareholders.

It was a psychological war.

Lunatica Media didn't know the value of these ten actors; they would definitely sell them off.

It was just a matter of price.

Even if it cost twenty million each actor, it would just be two hundred million.

Yohan and the team could afford it.

Janet then spoke, "Mr. Chung, perhaps you are not aware that these actors have just renewed their contracts."

Yohan couldn't help but sneer as he replied, "As far as I'm concerned, your company has not been optimistic about them. Don't play tricks with me."

Yohan was of the opinion that Janet was waiting for a higher price.

But how could she come up with a crappy excuse?! Contract renewal?

Ridiculous! How could it be possible that they renew these ten rubbish?

Janet looked at Yohan's complacent expression and suddenly tittered!

Brilliant!

Extremely brilliant!

It was the first time she was about to witness Yohan burned his fingers!

All thanks to William who had just resigned.

Even after that brat left, he could still outwit Yohan this old fox. Janet let out a sigh, for she was definitely not able to pull such a trick alone.

Janet teased, "I'll let you have a look at something good."

Janet nodded at the staff member and gave an instruction.

The staff member immediately went to handle what was told.

When the LED screen was lit up, Yohan and the team stood up at once.

Their eyes were filled with horror!

It was the renewed contracts of the ten actors on screen!

There were ten copies of them!

Each of them had a penalty of five hundred million if they were to terminate their contract prematurely!